THE GREAT PYRAMID AT MEMPHIS. SUI-CIDE FROM IT. NUMBER OF THE PYRAMIDS. The Great Pyramid is built of blocks of cut limestone, quarried in the Lybian Rock on which it is built. These blocks vary from 2 feet 2 inches, to 4 feet 10 inches in height. It was cased with blocks of beautiful white limestone cut in the quarries of Toorah, distant between 15 and 20 miles on the opposite side of the river. Col Vyse discovered these casing stones, and the pavement with fied the shape of the mutilated jaw, so that there which the pyramid was surrounded. It is from this pyramid, that a gentleman was once desperate enough to throw himself off! In April, 1831, an English traveller, named James Maze, threw himself from the Eastern side of this structure. His companion and himself were standing on the top, and whilst the former's back was turned, Maze must have fallen, for, on turning round, and missing him, he ran to the edge, and there saw Maze lying on the 5th step from the top, Commercial, whose editor has examined the book, evidently in extreme agony. But, before he could reach him, the unfortunate manuttered a groan, and, rolling heavily down from step to step, the body it reached the bottom a mass of bleeding matter.

This is the only instance on record of death from a fall from the pyramid, and as in the case graphic sketches published by Mr Kendall, of that of this individual, there is every reason to believe paper, after his return from captivity in Mexico. both from the sayings and arrangements of Maze before he went from Cairo, that the act was premeditated, it may be inferred that with common the rest of his volume-volumes as published in caution, there is no danger in ascent or descent, it the traveller will allow his Arab attendants to take him up in their own fashion.

The SECOND PYRAMID is difficult and dangerous in its ascent. Mr Gliddon informs us that he has never been tempted to make it. He knew possibly find origin in the most reckless and dehowever, about half a dozen travellers who had praved imagination. In a word, the book is a climbed it, and is told that not more than 25 European names are carved on the top.

This is an absolute error, and it will be new to most persons to learn that in Lower Egypt, beginning just below Memphis, and continuing into Middle Egypt there are the remains of at least 39, of which as many as 25 are in comparatively good preservation. This is only a general outline of a terrible wound, from which Mr Driscoll finally recovered, but greatly disfigured and wholly unable to masticate food. By the skill of a Boston dentist, Dr Harwood, now residing at Machias, Maine, the deformity was measurably overcome, and the ability to subsist on solid aliment restored to him by a complete set of teeth.

LITERARY SWINDLING. Capt Marryat's New Work, entitled "Travels and Adventures of Monsieur Violet," has been published in a neat octave pamphlet form by the Harpers. It purports to be travels among t the Indians of Western Mexico and the western territories, and is said to be entertaining, whilst it has some sharp flings at the Texans and at the people of the United States. MISS CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN, as we learn from the New York Express, after making a DENTAL SURGERY. We agree with Dr Smith, coming winter, and fulfilling an engagement at the Campbell's Magazine, with a beautiful mezzotint Southern professional tour with Mr Macready, the Park in the spring, goes with him to London, where she will make her first appearance under his auspices, upon the English stage.

We clip the following "things theatrical" from the Express: Mrs George Barrett, (once the brightest star in the theatrical firmanent, hereaways) has returned the back volumes of this Journal, an account may Mr Booth and James Wallack are now acting be found of the case of Jeremiah Driscot, of together at the Park, and in those fine plays of Warren, R. THOSE "MUSCLES," &c, AGAIN. Prof Bronson's first lecture in New York is thus sketched by the Herald:

One of the first positions of health, said Professor B, is uprightness. The good book says, "Blessed are the upright." And if blessed are the upright, cursed are the crooked. The Professor said he could give an infallible recipe either to impart a consumption, or to cure a consumption. In relation to speaking, there are two modes, one from the lungs, and the other from the abdominal pers. and dorsal muscles. The latter mode is right—the other wrong. Public speakers should be healthythat we do when not speaking, and consequently, twice the amount of oxygen, which is the source of life. Man ought to live three score years and ten—and he has no right to leave the world before. Children who die young are not taken away, but sent away. In our schools almost everything is taught to children except a knowledge of themselves-of their own bodies. This is all wrong. The use of the lower muscles in breathing and speaking gives health—the contrary, using the et cetera. muscles of the chest, leads to sickness invariably.

A NOVEL EXPERIMENT. At the last meeting | Capt Sands, hence, arrived at Havana 28th ult. of the Paris Academy of Sciences, a very curious paper was read, from the pen of Dr Plouvier, of Lille, on the application of the cornea of one animal to the eye of another. The doctor states that he has a rabbit which was blind, but to whose eye he has applied the cornea of another rabbit, and that the bitherto blind animal now sees perfectly. This is an extraordinary operation of surgery, but however successfully it may have been practiced, we do not think that it is applicable to the human race, for what man would consent to have the cornea removed in order that another person might benefit by his blindness?

A NEW MEMOIR OF NAPOLEON. A correspondent of the Charleston Mercury, writing from New York, under date of the 31st ult, says:

During an interview with Gen Bertrand, I learned a fact that will be pleasing to our literary and military statesman. It is that he has now in the press a work on the Campaign of Napoleon Egypt, dictated to him by that great commander, while he was at St Helena, a few months before his death, and which goes fully into the details of that extraordinary movement. It will contain, also, of a course of Lectures on the subject of Pathetism, Napoleon's view of the politics of the different governments of Europe during the same period.

TAUTTON & WENTWORTH have the satsisfaction of informing their friends and the public, that they have received from London, by the most recent arrivals of the Cunard Steamers, an extensive variety of the most MODERN STYLES of FANCY PRINT-ING MATERIALS, consisting, in part, of MA-THEMATICAL COMBINATIONS, with appropriate ORNAMENTS to match; and TYPES of the most exquisite designs and finish. The COMBI-NATIONS are most curious for the endless variety of patterns and dimensions they are capable of being formed into. - The ORNAMENTS, consist of Birds, Fountains, Flowers, Fruits, Vines, Vases, Urns, &c., and when arranged, (in good taste) with the Combinations, they form a class of BORDERS and ORNAMENTS, which; for beauty and order, surpass all other designs, for Letter-Press Printing, heretofore manufactured. > PINO FORTE. The first American edition of this largest, most simple, progressive, complete and yet the cheapest Instruction Book for the Piano, is now published and ready for sile. It is a faithful transcript of the original copy. (with the exception of the "Twelve Special Studies" which are soon to be issued in a separate form) published by the author. M. Bertini is well and favorably known in Europe, and also in this country as having devoted nearly the whole of his professional time and talents, to the composition of elementary works on the Piano Forte, of which this ranks first. and is styled his "Grande Methode." The work has passed through several editions in Europe, in the French German and Italian texts, and notwithstanding the great expense, foreign copies have been imported and used to considerable extent in this country by Professors. Teachers and even by Pupils. Among the peculiar advantages of this method are the following: the Lessons, Exercises, Scales and Studies, are so arranged as to present to the Public with all the necessary explanations, by means of marginal notes and illustrations, together with many valuable hints and rules to be observed while practising on the same page with the lesson or passage to be studied: the mechanical difficulties are introduced and explained in such a manner, as to render them casily progressive. and cannot fail to interest Pupils, and also while learning to play the Piano, will enable them to become good musicians. The author has composed expressly for this work, a series of chaste and beautiful melodies, introducing the different graces, embellishments, and all the various shades of expression, with remarks explanatory of the manner of producing the proposed effect, and by furnishing elements of study for more than a year, obviates the necessity of a recourse to a multitude of little pieces, almost all of which, are invariably carelessly written and badly fingered at Brighton, are thus described by Mr Holden, of tive member from Canada East: the Philadelphia Saturday Courier, in the last number of his "Notes by the Wayside:"

In the year 1830, Mr Warren, then a merchant in Boston, being in seeble health, removed his family to Brighton, his native place, and purchased the estate now bearing the name at the head of this article.

The estate had been improved but little. The lot of ground was situated, as its name indicates, He has travelled a great deal in the United States. in a valley. It was what was generally known by the term "A Bog Meadow." Little was done at first, but gradually, step by step, lot after lot, as the fertility of the soil manifested itself, was laid out; the building were remodelled and improved; new ones exected; and for several! years these improvements were made by Mr Warren with reference only to a private residence, and his grounds cultivated as an amateur.

But, in the course of a few years more, his increasing love of horticulture and floriculture, induced him to relinquish his business in the city, and to prefer the cultivation of the soil as a business to a mercantile life.

With these feelings and tastes, an extensive beds. &c. and all the necessary accompaniments tensive grounds were drained and laid out as a garden; walls for trust of the rarest kinds; trelparts of Europe; thus laying a sure foundation for an extensive fruit as well as flower garden.

These extensive and very valuable improvements were all accomplished previous to 1840. From that period to the present time, the proprieter has been adding to the useful something of Royal Academy, London, No 175 Trement st, opposite th the ornamental.

At the off-expressed desire of many who visited the gardens, and who were desirous of tasting the productions thereof, Mr Warren erected a fine pavilion, where, during the season of fruits, visitors can be supplied with any of the various fruits of the gardens. Strawberries and cream, Raspberries, &c, however, are the principal fruits furnished and eaten at the gardens, and for these fruits Mr Warren is justly celebrated, his strawberries measuring from 4 to 6 inches in circum-

A pond ornaments the centre of the gardens, in which the tragrant pond lily grows luxuriantly.

Mr Warren has been very successful in raising several valuable seedling fruits, viz: Warren's seedling "Srawberry;" Warren's seedling "Raspberry;" Warren's transparent "Cherry."

Here all the desirable kinds of fruit and forest trees, orna- TON'S. 13 Trement Row. mental trees, shrubbery, grape vines, &c, &c, can be had, and it will, in a short time, become one of the largest establishments in New England.

The Conservatory is very spacious, being one hundred feet long, built in the most substantial manner of brick, and in chaste style.

The collection of plants stands unrivalled in New England. His collection of Camellia Japonica numbers hundreds, many very large and several new and rare kinds. The Geraniums were very superior, and over one hundred varieties. The roses almost endless. We noticed many budded roses, from six to eight feet high, of the choicest kind of "Tea Rose." We also noticed superior specimens of the "Cactu:," and other varieties of plants were numerous enough to puzzle "a Philadelphia Lawyer" to number or specify. Suffice it to say, that the collection numbers several thousands, and is undoubtedly one of the finest in the country.

another house, especially for roses! and is also laying out and preparing the ground for "a Tulip finest ever shown, containing more than "one thousand bulbs" of the very select sorts.

In the little time we passed at the residence of Mr W, we elicited some singular yet pleasing circumstances connected with the location, &c, of | nue and Rowe street to Chauncy place. The finder wil these grounds, which must, in our opinion, strongly attach the proprietor to his present residence.

Mr W. can stand in the centre of his gardens, and point to the several dwellings where his father, his mother, and himself, were born, all these buildings surrounding his own, and yet not more than one half rifle shot. In our humble opinion, sing "Home, sweet Home," Mr W. is that man. "Nonantum Vale," during the summer season, ton st. is a place of resort of the most select company. THE MOHAWK LANGUAGE. A correspondent of the New York Express, writing from Kingston, Canada, in referring to a little circle drawn together, at a nouse in that city, by the meeting of Parliament, remarks:

There was a native of Canada, an interesting and intelligent gentleman, who has for the last 36 years, been connected with the Indian department, and is the first educated white man who has completely mastered the Mohawk dialect. He led the St Regis Indians, at Sir George Provost's farcicle expedition to Plattsburgh. TO 2. "OAK HALL." BY ONE OF ITS PATRONS. Webster we place the foremost among men

With fame so great, his foes dare not condemn; His mighty mind and legislative skill All must admire, view him how they will; There is another man less known to fame Who yet has carned an enviable name; The patient zeil he ever has displayed Preclaims him now "the Webster of his trade!" That noble building which he named "Oak Hall" Rose from the Earth like magic at his call: But though its spiendors may our notice win its chief attractions can be found withint "Oak Hall" may charm us! Yet we all confess That Simmons's skill is most displayed in dress; All classes here are clothed! the meek and vain Yet all are pleased; and none did e'er complain; While Webster lives an honor to his race With well carned fame that foremost takes its place The world still owns that one approaches DAN And cander points at SIMMONS as the mon.

TMPROVED SAFETY-VALVE AIR-TIGHT STOVES. These Stoves are constructed of the best materials and workmanship, of four sizes Of each size there are the Pyramid, the Ornament al and the Plain. To each is appended Mears's improved safety-valve, which is at once ornamental and highly useful, entirely precluding the possibility of escape of smoke or gas during the ordinary process of combustion; but on the generating of an explosive gas, the valve instantly rises and presents an aperture five inches in diameter for its escape; after which it Inevitably resumes its position as perfect as before, not being liable to be thrown from its seat, and thus, by the admission of a current of air, hasten the combustion of the fuel and fill the room with smoke during the night, or otherwise. Also, the improved ARNOTT or COAL AIR-TIGHT, with internal columns for the circulation of heated air, which, for convenience, comfort and economy, is not surpassed by any Stove yet before the public; together with an extensive assortment of the most approved coal and wood CONKING STOVES.
