

Paris. Sep. 17th 1861

An opportunity offers itself for me to send a little package to my own sweet darling by a Mr. Downing who goes to New York. ~~Today~~ at 4 o'clock. & this is 12 1/2. I ran over to Estlin immediately to see if I could find you a pair or two of boots. I could find only this one thick pair - but he is making another pair - to be finished on Saturday - not quite so thick as these - but I thought that you had better have a pair for the autumn before the snow comes. I took this one pair - which he had - but I shall make arrangements with Mr. Richards, partner to Munroe & Co. that you shall write to him for what you want enclosing a note for Estlin & also for J. Wain. P. Boulevard Bonne Nouvelle. & he will send them. I say ~~freely~~ & find opportunities of sending you your things - whenever you want them. As I am on this side I good for any amount of money

You can want a pink paper. I am sure that you can get easily any thing from her.
You must send me the size of the inside of your brown hat. I shall have you a lignon one made in Florence. so that you shall have it not spring. one of the Coromandel shaped ones.
And darling. if you want another pair of buffs for your hair you must send me something for colour & I will have it arranged for you. I find I can do almost anything I want. except for money out of the stone.
So whatever you want. say you go to China for red want boots & shoes in plenty. you must send for them. in good time. I will send you another pair of boots which I have ordered (I like a good pair of boots) I have forgotten whether for nothing another I have forgotten whether you would think a thin boot than just I must to my instruction. in getting for my thief. by a lady who comes out in the Asia (a fine name) on the 28th. she will send them by Adams.

We left London on Thursday & and mother and only. I am to put on my bonnet. That I may be called back to the this winter. God for find it! but I get my Sadat leaving me! Uncle Charles my wife! On Saturday - we went to Fontainebleau by appointment. I had an hour & a half of luncheon with Rosa Bonheur. of which I must write to you. Oh the most exquisite time. I saw such lovely things to show you another that it made me blush! I never had any body come to me. I have had made and promise to sit for a photograph. together for her. Aunt Emma & I. we are going to a friend of hers for the purpose. how you would have been delighted!! Aunt Emma send you these little buttons for your right pair. They are my common little things. but coming in change. as as good as real ones. I had one a beautiful pair once. which he was so grateful for that he wore them. because they were imitation. I wish he was a real one. all things. I am so anxious to see my letter by the Canada. the steamer arrived on Saturday PM in Liverpool. but I have no letter yet! If my darling had heard what I told her of my intended monuments. his letter to me by the Canada mail has come to Paris. perhaps it has gone on for for I hoped to be finished him by this time. - shall leave here on Saturday night for Turin & Florence. hoping to arrive in the latter on the 26. To remain a few days only. I hope I will see the Duke for my brother's sake him. He means to work soon. Mrs. Stowe's letter is drawing forth almost personal answers. There is no earthly sympathy in the north - in England - nor even among the so-called Anti-Slavery party. They hate our institutions - but at this moment - notwithstanding the war in America. No country on the earth in such spirit as England herself.

I send you 4 cakes of soap such as you like two batons. - With to me my precious one for long letters - tell me every thing. I can read letters crossed. Every word. Every dear word. I send him a letter I will pray up. the same length of time ^{as he allowed} to write to me.
Slavery America. is not that fair? Every body from to Henry & to Mrs. Child & every body who care for us. and even to Helen and her son. In I am your own fondly loving devoted Aunt
